Protesters Ask Conn. U. Amnesty

STORRS, Conn. Nov. 11 (UPI)—Student demonstrators occupied the kitchen of the University of Connecticut administration building today and indicated they would not leave until amnesty was granted four professors and eight students involved in a protest against the Dow Chemical Co. last month.

Students and professors who took part in the Oct. 30 demonstration against Dow, a manufacturer of napalm for the Vietnam war, have received letters from the university threatening disciplinary action and suspension. The protest forced cancellation of Dow recruiting interviews on the campus.

Today's demonstrators, numbering about 60, moved into the administration building shortly after a news conference attended by about 300 persons at which a spokesman for the Students for a Democratic Society, Richard Savage, 21, of West Hartford, demanded amnesty.
